SOMETHING NICE FOR BREAKFAST.

Why, yes, ma'am, here is some splendid bacon.

It is wonderfully toothsome, mild, sweet and as healthful as anything you could eat.

NO MA'AM it isn't just the same as the rest—Quite a bit different.

This Bacon started to be good before it was Bacon, the breeding you know, then the feeding.

Cured more carefully than most Bacons, too.

Really, we don't think you will be able to find anything anywhere QUITE so nice for breakfast.

Charles E. Hughes probably will open his active Presidential campaign the second week in August with a 7,000 mile trip to the Pacific Coast and return. The nominee is considering an itinerary that will provide for a dozen set speeches.

PRICE APPOINTED.

Joe Price, of Lancaster, who was a student in Centre College, has been appointed to a fine Government position on the Panama canal. Price is a cousin of Hon. William Jennings Price, Minister to Panama. He is well known in Danville.—Danville Advocate.

PAINT LICK DEFEAT.

Paint Lick again suffered defeat at the hands of its old rival Whites Station last Saturday by the close score of seven to six. Two games are scheduled for this Saturday, the first with Cottonburg and the second with Whites Station. Both at Paint Lick.

WINCHESTER FAIR.

The Clark County Fair which will be held in Winchester July 26-29 inclusive will be the biggest exhibition ever held in the State of Kentucky. Preparations are now under way for the handling of the largest crowd that has ever attended a fair in that city, and the largest number of horses that has ever attended a county fair in the Blue Grass will be on the grounds.

THE REASON WHY.

Why is it that BATSON & WEST are selling GOODS SO CHEAP?
BECAUSE they buy for CASH and sell for CASH.
BECAUSE they take all discounts.
BECAUSE they have the lowest rent.
BECAUSE they have no clerks to pay.
BECAUSE they do their own work.
THAT IS THE REASON.

GOOD STREET FAIR HERE.

The Littlejohn Greater Shows of Street Fair, which was so well patronized here last year is showing this week on the grounds of A. H. Bastin, on Richmond street. The attractions are strictly moral and non sensational and are clean and wholesome. The shows are interesting to all who attend and are satisfying in all their details. In connection with the shows is the famous Grella Band which is giving concerts every afternoon and evening on the square.

Mr. Littlejohn is an Alabama man, his home being in Decatur. His is the only attraction of this kind owned and operated in the South by a Southern born man, and being of Southern birth and raising, he knows just what the people of the South want, and gives it to them. Littlejohn's greatest pride is in the fact that he has a line of attractions that are strictly moral and as clean and wholesome as anything of the kind ever dared to be.

THE DIX RIVER DAM.

Mr. Louis B. Herrington who has been at work on the Dix River dam exploit for several years was at Kennedy's Mill last week where a camp has already been pitched and workmen are now busy drilling the rock to locate the best location for the giant structure. A water gauge was placed in the river just above Kennedy's Mill in 1910 and the water flow readings have been taken regularly and have been filed in government reports. Engineers and authorities on water power and electric plants have been sent out from time to time and every investigation has proven the plan more feasible. The exploit is now assured and the work of construction awaits only the exact location of the most solid base for the dam. The height of the dam will be something over two hundred feet and water will be backed up as far as King's Mill. The plant when completed will furnish power and light at a great reduction to all the Central Kentucky towns and will facilitate factory and mill work in that section. Mr. Herrington together with Messrs. Harvey and Waller Chenault and a number of other influential men have been working together on this immense project for several years and the fact that such men as these should make this large undertaking a success.—Richmond Climax.

HUGHES.

Miss Polly Hughes died at Marksburg on Monday morning. She was an aunt of the late William Hughes and of Mrs. Katherine Aldridge. She was born in Lincoln county ninety years ago and had lived there most of her life, but was making her home with Mr. Abner Hughes at the time of her death.

LOCATES AT BUCKEYE

Dr. J. E. Edwards of Mays Lick, Mason County, and a graduate of the class of 1916 at the University of Louisville has decided to take up the practice of Medicine at Buckeye, and moved there with his wife this week. Dr. Edwards graduated with high honors in his class and recently passed his State Board Examinations.

WALTON PUBLICITY HEAD.

Col. W. P. Walton, former Editor of the Interior Journal, the Lexington Democrat and the Frankfort State Journal, has been appointed Chairman of the Publicity Bureau for the Democratic State Campaign. Col. Walton's wide experience as an editor, and the fact that he served in the same capacity under Chairman Camden, makes him a valuable man for this important position.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION.

The Presidents policy of "watchful waiting" has been fully justified by the developments in the Mexican situation. The troubles with Carranza in regard to American forces in Mexico will be settled through diplomatic channels of the two governments, in due course. The President is firm in his stand that the First Chief persists in our withdrawal, he must show himself able and willing to carry out the work for which our expedition was sent into Mexico.

NEW LAW NOW IN FORCE.

The act passed by the last session of the Kentucky Legislature for the protection of the fish in the streams of this State became effective Wednesday. Circular letters have been sent out by Executive Agent J. Q. Ward to all the counties notifying fishermen that it would be unlawful to catch fish except with rod, line and hook, hand lines, set lines or trot lines. Persons attempting to catch fish by any other means will be subject to a fine of not less than $15 nor more than $100 for each offense.

The new law prohibits the use of wing nets, set nets, seine, trap, trammel net, dip net, or any kind of a net or contrivance that will materially hinder the passage of the fish in any stream in the State. The use of dynamite or other forms of explosives in the streams is also forbidden under the law. Shooting of fish is also prohibited.

HUGHES.

Mr. William Hughes, one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Garrard county, passed quietly from time to eternity at his home on Richmond Street Monday morning at seven o'clock. He had been confined to his bed about two weeks and all that his devoted family and friends could do was of no avail.

He was born in Garrard county in 1840 and in 1861 he was married to Miss Mary Elizabeth Mackebury. He is survived by his wife and three children who are, Messrs. Edd and Ben Hughes of this place, and Mrs. J. W. Acery of Stanford, and a very devoted little granddaughter, Miss Della Rice Hughes.

Mr. Hughes was a man of quiet and gentle disposition in his home and with his friends, and was ever ready to help in sickness and distress. He was a life long member of the Christian church. The funeral services were conducted at his late residence by Eld. F. M. Tindler Wednesday morning at ten o'clock after which interment took place in the Lancaster cemetery.

MULE COLT RING

AT STANFORD FAIR.

The K. of P. Fair at Stanford offers an innovation this year in offering a prize of one hundred and fifty dollars for the best mule colt, but a provision of the stake will be that the colt becomes the property of the Fair Association. Certainly no owner would have a colt so fine that he would refuse such a price for it, and as no entrance fee is charged, a large entry list is expected.

"TEDDY" ALDRIDGE

Receives Painful Injuries in Auto Accident

Mr. Thad N. Aldridge, a popular and well known drummer of Stanford, received some very painful injuries last Wednesday night, when his car became unmanageable and ran off a bridge. His limb was broken in two places and his foot crushed and it is feared he was injured about his head. He was taken to his room where he received medical aid, later he was removed to the home of his parents where everything possible is being done for him. He is resting easy and his many friends are hoping for his complete recovery.

HOW HELM HAS UPHELD THE HANDS OF THE PRESIDENT.

An inspection of the Congressional Record shows that Mr. Helm deserted the President and the Democratic majority of Congress upon several of the most vital matters which have been before Congress in recent years, matters which were salient features of the Democratic platform and the enactment of which has received the almost unanimous approval and commendation of the people of the nation. Congressman Helm claims to have "endeavored to consistently uphold the hands of the President."

When the great Banking and Currency act was passed; the act which established Federal Reserve Banks and did more to place the financial system of this country upon a firm, substantial and permanent basis than all other currency legislation within half a century, where was the vote of the present Congressman from the Eighth district?

The roll call shows that Mr. Helm DID NOT VOTE upon this bill. Every other democrat from Kentucky voted for the bill except Cantrill, who, also is recorded as not voting upon it.

When the Immigration bill, designed to exclude a great many illiterate and undesirable foreigners from making America a breeding place and asylum for crime, was up for passage in the House, where was Mr. Helm's vote upon this big measure, advocated by the president?

The record shows that Mr. Helm DID NOT VOTE upon this bill. Every other democrat from Kentucky voted for it except Sherley, of Louisville, where there is a large foreign population, and who voted against it.

When the bill to repeal a provision of the Panama Canal Tolls act exempting vessels engaged in coastwise trade of the U. S. form tolls through the canal was up, and vigorously urged for passage by President Woodrow Wilson, where was Mr. Helm's vote?

Every Democratic congressman from Kentucky except Helm voted for the bill. The record shows the congressmen from Kentucky who voted against this bill, earnestly desired by the President to have been:

HELM, Democrat.
LANGLEY, Republican.
POWERS, Republican.

And again. When the Anti-Trust bill, in two acts, was before the house and this was one of the very fundamental features of the Democratic platform and campaign for victory in 1912—where was the vote of Mr. Helm, who says he desires to "consistently uphold the hands of the President?"

On both Anti-Trust bills, Mr. Harvey Helm, of the Eighth Kentucky district, is recorded in the official record, as NOT VOTING.

To say the least, the present congressman from this district seems to have adopted a most unusual and remarkable method of "consistently upholding the hands of the President."

By his votes upon these measures which the President and the Democratic majority of both Houses of Congress believed of intense and paramount importance to the country that they be enacted into law, it might almost be said in the language of the immortal Ollie James, in talking of a certain "statesman", who deserted the President and the majority of his party at a crucial hour: "Yes; he upheld the hands of the President; held them up so that his enemies might tie them."

Think this over, Mr. Democratic Voter, when the primary election rolls around on August 5th. Do you believe in continuing in office a congressman who "upholds the hands of the President" in such fashion?

GERMAN SUBMARINE

LANDS AT BALTIMORE.

Makes Trip With Valuable Cargo In Sixteen Days.

The German merchant supersubmarine Deutschland has arrived in Chesapeake Bay.

Long expected, ridiculed, fabulous as the sea serpent or the Flying Dutchman, she became a reality to the watchers off Cape Henry at exactly 1:20 o'clock Sunday morning, and soon after was slowly making her way through a network of inquisitive ships and thru the mazes of red tape of the quarantine and customs officials toward her dock at the pier of the Eastern Forwarding Company, Locust Point, Baltimore, where she arrived Monday.

The Deutschland made the trip in sixteen days. She is the largest submarine afloat. The largest German war models are less than 300 feet long. But this submarine of commerce is 315 feet long, exactly one third the length of the largest merchant vessels afloat—the Vaterland and the Imperator.

The boat carried no passengers. Her cargo consists of dyestuff—a hundred tons of them, and many tons of mail. This keeps her very low in the water when riding on the surface. Her draft when she was sighted was 17 feet and it was largely because of her depth that she did not try to come to land when submerged.

CENTRAL RECORD

DOPESTERS WORK ON 1916 ELECTION

Vote of 1912 Basis For Figuring on the Results.

BOTH SIDES SEE VICTORY.

Wilson Received Popular Vote of 6,293,019 to 7,604,463 For Taft and Roosevelt, but He Got 435 Electoral Votes to 96 For Roosevelt and Taft.
New York's Vote Important.

Now is the time to begin your figuring on the national campaign. Use the election returns for 1912. There are a number of people in the country who believe that the events of the past are the best guide to the future.

Hughes supporters have added together the popular vote received in 1912 by Taft, 3,484,506, and by Roosevelt, 4,119,507, comparing that total, 7,604,463, with the vote that Wilson received, 6,293,019, and summing up the process with the argument that as Wilson's vote was 1,311,444 less than the combined Taft-Roosevelt vote four years ago, why, a united Republican party this year is simply going to "walk away," etc.

Wilson supporters pool-pool popular vote analyses and invite scrutiny of the electoral college vote in 1912, with Wilson's 435 compared with 96, the sum of Roosevelt's 88 and Taft's 8.
The Wilson prophets are absolutely confident that there's to be no political turnover next November such as will so depreciate Wilson's strength in the next electoral college as to give him less than 267 votes, the number necessary to elect a president. In 1912 Taft carried Utah and Vermont, each with four electoral votes. Roosevelt carried California, Michigan, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Washington—six states. Wilson carried forty of the forty-eight states.

Analysis of Vote.
Take New York state's popular vote in 1912 as a specimen for analysis.
Wilson received 655,475 votes; Taft, 455,428; Roosevelt, 390,021; total of Taft and Roosevelt's vote, 845,449, or 189,974 more than Wilson's vote. Then come the questions: "Can half of this number of voters, 95,000, be turned from the Republican candidate of 1916 to Mr. Wilson? Has the latter's popularity so increased that in the pivotal Empire State, with its forty-five electoral votes, Wilson can be counted upon to attract 95,000 more votes than gave him the ballots in 1912?"

If Mr. Wilson can get 750,000 popular vote in New York state, then it would seem that his re-election is assured. Whether Wilson's popularity has increased and whether there will be a lessened interest in the Hughes campaign as compared with the Republican factional animosities that inspired activity in 1912 will be made plain in November.

Take Wilson's own state of New Jersey for analysis. That state gave Taft 88,835, Roosevelt 145,410 and Wilson 178,280. The Taft-Roosevelt total was 234,245, or 55,956 more than Wilson's vote. Wilson partisans in New Jersey are content to say that the candidate whom the state has given to the Democratic party can easily run up his 1912 vote twenty-five to thirty thousand, which, with a reduced Republican-Progressive vote due to lessened party fervor with the cessation of factional disputing, will mean New Jersey, with its fourteen electoral votes, safely carried for Wilson.

The total vote cast in 1912 was 15, 036,542, of which the Socialists, it is interesting to note, cast not quite 1,000, 000, or less than 7 per cent. The Prohibitionists cast less than 2 per cent of the total vote.

CONTROL OF THE SENATE.

Terms of Seventeen Democrats and Fifteen Republicans Expire In 1917.

Control of the United States senate is another important matter the voters will be called upon to decide at the polls in November. Terms of thirty-two senators expire, and both Democrats and Republicans are going to make every effort to supplant members of the opposite political party.

The senators whose terms expire on March 3, 1917, are:

Democrats.

Ashurst of Arizona, Bryan of Florida, Chilton of West Virginia, Culberson of Texas, Hitchcock of Nebraska,

Johnson of Maine, Lea of Tennessee,

Lee of Maryland, Martine of New Jersey, Myers of Montana, O'Gorman of and Williams of Mississippi.

Republicans.

RECALLS WAR OF 1846 WITH MEXICO

Veteran Tells of Ambush That Caused Hostilities.

FLED AT A BAYONET CHARGE

Santa Anna's Troops Wouldn't Fight
Onslaughts of Americans—Not a Gun or Flag Was Lost During the Two Years' Struggle—Call For 30,000 Volunteers Was Issued.

War between the United States and Mexico in 1846 began as the result of a skirmish similar to the unprovoked attack by Mexicans upon the detachment of General Pershing's forces, it was recalled by a veteran of the first Mexican war, Colonel Charles J. Murphy of New York, who is the youngest survivor of that conflict. Colonel Murphy also was a staff officer in the civil war.
On June 3 he was eighty-four years old. Colonel Murphy, commenting on the fight at Carrizal, said:

"The news of the first battle in Mexico reminds me that the war with Mexico in 1846 commenced in a similar way on April 24, 1846, although there was not a formal declaration of war between the two countries. Like the recent fight, it was an ambush for the Americans, and similarly the Americans were attacked by superior forces of probably four to one.

"Captain Thornton, United States army, marching at the head of seventy men of the Second dragoons in Texas, fell into an ambush of Mexican regular troops on April 24, 1846, numbering between 300 and 400. After a gallant resistance he was killed, with sixteen members of his command, and thirty-eight were wounded. The remainder of the force were taken prisoners. In this fight, as in that of the other day, it may be noted that apparently the approximate numbers of the slain and wounded were the same on both sides.

It was six days later when the Mexicans attacked Fort Brown and were repulsed, said Colonel Murphy. On May 8 General Taylor defeated the Mexican army of Generals Ampudia and Arista at Palo Alto.

"It is a noteworthy fact that these battles were fought without a declaration of war on either side," continued the colonel. "Indeed, no declaration of war was ever made by either of the two contending republics."

Thirty Thousands Volunteers Called.

These conflicts were followed by a call for 30,000 volunteers by President Polk. More than 65,000 volunteers responded promptly. As a comparison of the quotas furnished by each state with the present mobilization of the militia on President Wilson's call, these figures are given by Colonel Murphy:

Alabama, 2,981; Maryland and District of Columbia, 1,372; Arkansas,
1,274; Florida, 280; Missouri, 8,441;
Georgia, 1,987; North Carolina, 805; Illinois, 3,791; South Carolina, 1,120; New York, 1,890; Indiana, 4,325; Ohio, 5,334;
Iowa, 220; New Jersey, 420; Kentucky,
4,064; Louisiana, 7,341; Pennsylvania,
2,117; Michigan, 1,072; Tennessee, 5,304; Massachusetts, 930; Texas, 7,394; Mississippi, 2,235, and Wisconsin, 140.

At that time Mexico had a regular army of 50,000 and had called into the field an additional force, chiefly volunteers, of nearly 200,000 men.

Colonel Murphy reviewed the details of some of the later battles to show, he said, the tricky act of General Santa Anna in using a flag of truce and a messenger to General Taylor for the purpose of giving his army time to escape the Americans at the Rancho Buena Vista. General Scott, too, later found that Santa Anna had violated an armistice of twenty days, fortifying his position and re-enforcing his army. Speaking of the final big battles of that war and the taking of the City of Mexico, Colonel Murphy recalled these impressions made upon him at the time:

"It was no holiday war. It was replete with toilsome marches, with blistering and bleeding feet, through hot sands under a tropical sun, over jagged rocks and snowy mountain ranges where horses and riders perished with cold and exposure. It abounded with nameless tragedies both in bloody fields near many a smoking gun and in the deep gloom of fever stricken hospitals.

"In that memorable war of two years we fought seventy battles and engagements without the final loss of a single gun or an American ensign. Engaged always against heavy odds, we bore the honor of our great republic triumphantly on our ever advancing swords and bayonets.

"I must not forget to mention that the soldiers of the Mexican armies throughout the whole war were never known to stand a single charge of bayonets.

"Blended with patriotic reflections, we proudly recall the fact that we marched nearly 3,000 miles through the country of an enemy alien to us in race and language and performed no act to wound the modesty of women. The flames of no defenseless homestead lighted up our line of march, and no matin hymn or vesper bells were silenced by our coming.

"What has been the result of that victorious war? It acquired for us the vast territories of California, Nevada, Colorado, New Mexico, Idaho, Arizona and Utah, thus adding 1,000,000 square miles, or 640,000,000 acres, to the United States, nearly doubling its area."

Those Mexican Names.

Mexican names that are euphonious in Spanish are awkward when pronounced as in English. The vowels have the same sound as in German. J has the sound of a strongly aspirated H, and H is mute. The double R is rolled, and the double L is followed by the consonant sound of Y. The accent is on the ultimate when the word ends in a consonant, usually on the penultimate when ending in a vowel.
Exceptions are indicated by use of the accent mark.

SUMMER LIGHTNING.
Summer lightning is beginning to take its toll from the farm houses and barns. Farm fires usually show a marked increase with the coming of summer, due to the lightning from thunderstorms. There are two ways of meeting the danger—the fire protection in the way of fire extinguishers and farm water systems can be made adequate or the right type of a lightning rod system can be installed. There are reputable firms making lightning rods that will give protection, and most insurance companies make a lower rate for farm buildings protected in this way.

JOHNSON GRASS A WEED.

Post Should Be Destroyed During the Summer and Fall.

Kansas farmers who planted oats containing Johnson grass, an undesirable weed, should destroy the pest this summer or in the fall, according to G. E. Thompson, specialist in crops, division of extension, Kansas State Agricultural college.

"Definite records show that 50,000 bushels of oats containing Johnson grass seed were planted in the state last spring," says Mr. Thompson.

"Johnson grass is a weed pest because of the large underground root stalks which cause the plant to spread rapidly and enable it to live over from year to year. Yet it is hard to get and maintain a stand sufficiently good to make a satisfactory meadow, and in Kansas Johnson grass is worth but little for pasture. The large bunches or clumps of Johnson grass as they appear in the fields interfere with cultivation, prevent getting uniform stands, sap moisture and plant food from the cultivated crop and are a nuisance at harvest time.

"If during the early and mid part of summer the Johnson grass can be kept short enough to keep the plants in a weak condition comparatively few root stalks will penetrate deep into the ground will be formed. An oat or a wheat crop serves this purpose quite well. When the Johnson grass is in this weakened condition, plowing in July or early August will further weaken the plants and will entirely kill many of them. If the ground then is given clean cultivation until fall nearly all of the grass that is not killed by the cultivation will freeze out during the winter. In case a good deal of the grass shows up after this midsummer plowing it may be advisable to late fall plow in order to further expose the roots to freezing."

How Much Dust in Air?

A scientist is using an ingenious new method of ascertaining just how much dust and smoke the atmosphere contains. A ribbon of filter paper is stretched over a small slit in the side of a hollow brass cylinder, and the air is passed through the paper by exhausting the interior of the cylinder.
After a half hour's exposure the ribbon is automatically moved on and a fresh surface exposed.

FOR SALE FARM

and Personal Property.

As executor of the will of Rebecca J. West and pursuant to said will pro-bated in June 1915 by the Garrard County Court, I will sell her farm in Garrard County, Kentucky, five miles east of Lancaster, and one mile from the station of the L. & N. R. R. at Hyattsville, on the Kirksville and Hyattsville Turnpike on Tuesday Aug. 1st, 1916

at two o'clock P. M., on the premises, rain or shine, as the said is made to settle her estate.

TERMS.—There is about 283 acres in said farm; about 130 acres on the east side of the turnpike and about 153 acres on the west side. Said land will be first offered in said two tracts, and then as a whole, and the bid or bids will be accepted, which will realize the most money, said land to be sold by the acre and to be surveyed and so paid for and conveyed subject to said survey.

Bonds with good security to be required of the purchaser, one half the purchase money to be due January 1st, 1917 and the other one half in two bonds or notes of equal amount due and payable in one and two years from January 1st, 1917 and to bear interest at 6 per cent per annum from January 1st 1917. Possession to be given and deed made when first bond is paid on January 1st, 1917, seeding privileges given in the fall of 1916. A lien to be retained on said land to secure said bonds and notes.

There is on said farm a dwelling house with eight rooms and two porches, stock barn, crib and other outbuildings; also two good tenant houses, three tobacco barns and a pair of scales, splendid water and well watered, and the land is in a high state of cultivation, one half in grass. The farm will be sold first; after which I will also sell five work mules, one brood mare, one mule colt and the farming implements of all kinds. [No household or kitchen furniture to be sold.] All amounts under twenty-five dollars cash. Notes with good surety with interest from date due January 1st, 1917 for all amounts over twenty five dollars.

Marion Johnston, who lives on the farm, will show it to prospective purchasers, and Col. I. M. Dunn will act as auctioneer.

We are authorized to announce Jephtha Onstott a candidate for the Democratic nomination for County Court Clerk, subject to the action of the primary, August 1917.

We are authorized to announce Hon. Harvey Helm, of Lincoln county, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress, in this, the eighth district of Kentucky, subject to the primary to be held August 1916.

TO THE CHAIRMAN AND MEMBERS Of The State Central and Executive Committees of the Democratic Party Of Kentucky.

Gentlemen:
At a full meeting of your committee in Louisville on June twenty-first you elected me Chairman of the State Campaign Committee for the purpose of securing the electoral vote of the State of Kentucky for Woodrow Wilson for President and Thomas R. Marshall for Vice President of the United States, and the election of Democratic Congressmen from Kentucky.

I am deeply sensible of the honor and accept the same. I am also fully aware of the tremendous responsibility and labor ahead of me in this work, but I will cheerfully give the best that is in me. At this crisis in the history of our Nation I know of no nobler work that could be done than keeping the honor and safety of our Republic in the hands of Woodrow Wilson.

I will not be the Chairman of any faction or division of the Democratic Party in managing the Campaign. I expect the full and hearty support of every citizen in Kentucky who desires the re-election of President Wilson and I will so conduct the campaign as to be worthy of that support.

The election of the County Campaign Chairmen by the County Committees will convince each fair-minded voter that when the Committee is completed which must manage the fight, that all factions in the Democratic Party will be fully recognized and will share in the honor of the great victory which is ahead of us.

It has been and will be my policy to put the campaign in the hands of the people, and the election of Campaign chairmen of each county by the local committee reaches closer to the people than any other plan. In other words I expect to be the servant of the local Committees, and right here let me say, that I expect the local Committees to share the responsibility of the fight with me. The position of Campaign Chairman carries with it great labor and responsibility in each county, and if for any reason which may arise in the future, any county chairman finds that he can not give his time and talent to the conduct of the campaign in his county, I trust he will so notify me in order that another may be elected. But a small part of the work can be done at state headquarters; the main work must be done by the county campaign chairmen in each county.

It is my intention to open headquarters on August first for active work and the location of headquarters will be publicly announced before that date. Since my election as Campaign Chairman I have done much detail work that was necessary in preparing for this coming struggle.

I feel that it is my duty to lay some plain facts before the Democrats of Kentucky. The votes as actually cast for the last twenty years show that Kentucky is a very close state politically. At the outset I wish to warn my Democratic brethren of overconfidence.

Our Republican opponents in Kentucky are already in the field equipped with every influence necessary to wage a hard political battle, and it behooves every Democrat in Kentucky to make himself a campaign committee of one and get to work for the success of his party. I will always appreciate suggestions from any Democrat in the state and also welcome criticism made for the purpose of giving force and effect to the Democratic cause. I wish each Democrat in Kentucky to feel that this fight is as much his as mine, and each Democrat will always be taken into full confidence as to what is being done at headquarters and will always be a welcome visitor there.

I know that the State Campaign Committee will have the full support of the Democratic newspapers of the state. This support will be the most powerful factors in the campaign and the State Headquarters will always be at the command of the newspapers in every way within its power.

The Republican Party in the Nation is the same Old Boss-ridden party that it has always been. Penrose, Barnes, Crane, Smoot and the other big bosses of the Republican Party spent days at the Chicago convention dealing for a nominee and finally had to drag a candidate from the Supreme Court of the United States.

The Republican Party did not dare nominate a candidate who had opened his mouth during the last ten years on any vital question in which the American people were interested.

The Republican Party when the convention was over did not boast about the nomination of Justice Hughes but spent all of their energy in boasting of how they had killed Teddy and his Bull Moose. The Republicans have certainly stretched the hide of the Bull Moose on the Cabin door and that seems to be their chief cause of joy. If the Democrats of Kentucky do their full duty our Republican friends will not get the hide of the Democratic Donkey nor will they even pick the tail feathers of the Game Cock, which is our emblem.

The Progressive Party was formed as a protest against the bosses of the Republican Party and to rebuke the theft of the nomination from Col. Roosevelt by the Republican Convention in 1912.

It would be an insult to the intelligence of the Progressives to say that they will go back to the Republican Party and we cordially invite them into the Democratic household. We will put some fresh logs on the fire and give them a comfortable seat at the hearth and make them feel at home.

We also expect the support of patriotic Republicans who place the National honor above mere party success. There are thousands of patriotic Republicans who resent the action of the Republican Party in Congress who tried to pass the McLenore Resolution, which meant the absolute surrender of every American right on the high seas. I have had many Kentucky Republicans tell me that they expected to vote for the re-election of Woodrow Wilson because he stood for America first, last and all of the time, and for America only. To this class of patriotic Republicans we extend an open hand of welcome.

The Republicans in Kentucky are in high glee because they expect the support of the voters of German extraction. This is an open insult to the intelligence and patriotism of the voters in Kentucky of German descent. I know many of these men and they are as patriotic as any class of our citizens and I certainly expect the support of those who have been Democrats heretofore and of those who love the flag of the Stars and Stripes better than any other flag. I certainly would not insult the patriotism of the voters of German descent by even conceding that any proportion of them in Kentucky expected to vote the Republican ticket this fall.

To the cause of true Democracy and to true Americanism I ask the earnest support of every true Kentuckian and every true American. We go into this campaign knowing full well the justice of our cause. Kentucky has never failed to measure up fully to her full duty to the Nation and let us prepare to roll up the greatest majority for Wilson and Marshall that the state has ever given in any election. The fight is in the hands of the people and as Campaign chairman I will do the very best I can to discharge my duties fairly and fully. The capable and worthy gentlemen whom you have named on the committees to serve with me I know will discharge fully the honors which you have placed on them.

As the campaign progresses other committees will be named to handle the details of the campaign and the names will soon be made public. The motto of our beloved Commonwealth will be the battle cry of our State Campaign Committee; "United we stand, divided we fall." "Good government like all other good things must be fought for. The Democracy of Kentucky has no selfish interest to conserve, no personal ambitions to further, no class of its citizens to favor, and under my leadership as campaign chairman there will be but one purpose in view and that is to secure the electoral vote of Kentucky for Wilson and Marshall and to elect Democratic members of Congress from the state to support them in the future as the Democratic members of Kentucky have loyally supported them in the past. On this program I expect and respectfully ask the full support of every patriotic Kentuckian.

Very truly yours,
J. C. CANTILL.

WHAT THE RECORD SHOWS.

Collier's Weekly of recent date says: "The only way to form an intelligent guess regarding the attendance of a member (of Congress) is from the number of times he is recorded as not voting on a yea and nay vote. There were 67 record votes taken during the 3rd session of the 63rd Congress. The following shows the number of times each member is recorded as not voting during the session." Here follow the figures. Of the 435 members of the House only thirteen are recorded as being present and voting at every roll call except one. One of these thirteen is Representative Harvey Helm of this district. Only one out of the 435 exceeding this record for constant attendance made by Mr. Helm. Mr. Helm is now "on the job," and has refused and is still refusing to listen to the importunities of friends who have insisted that he come home and look after the opposition brought out against him for the renomination. He evidently believes that a soldier sent away on duty can trust to the people at home to look after his interests while he is away and we have never yet heard of a member of Congress who remained on the job, but had his faith in the home people vindicated by the result.

How with such records as have been made any democrat can feel it his privilege, much less his duty to oppose the renomination and re-election of any democratic member of the present congress is a little difficult to understand. We waive the question of justice—the claim that the members of the majority in Congress have had as much to do with the success of the present National Administration as the President and Vice President, and are just as much entitled to renomination by acclamation. We waive all this and put it on purely business grounds. What could any new man in Congress from this district, however great his ability hope to do at any early date, either in the big general sense, or as affecting the local interests of the several counties of the district that the present representative has not done, or is not doing?

How could he hope to, at once, even approach the usefulness of the present, painstaking, industrious member of long and large experience, the critical times now on and doubtless ahead? What would be the thought of the business judgment of bank directors who would discharge during a panic the bank official who had just weathered for them a financial storm? What would be thought of the democracy of this or any other district who would rebuke the representative who has stood by the Administration that has so far successfully weathered the world wide storm that is still raging?

We believe that those who are encouraging the present contest (?) in this district, if they are not moved entirely by patronage—disappointments in patronage matters, at a time when patriotism ought to submerge even a thought of patronage—owe it to themselves and the voters of the district to give some reason for the contest, and for even proposing a change. Surely their party's best interest is not their chief motive, for even the blind can see that any contest within the party can but lose the latter votes in November, when every vote may be needed in the district, and is sure to be needed in the state's total for the Presidential nominee.

FURNITURE IS NOW BEING PAINTED

Peasant Styles Being All the Rage, Get Out Some Castoff Pieces and Treat Them to a New Coat of Paint.

BECAUSE it is of humble name do not imagine that painted furniture is always cheap. Manufacturers of some of our finest furniture turn out a great number of peasant styles than of almost any other kind, and they go their way into very fine homes. Even Marie Antoinette liked to play at being a shepherdess when it suited her fancy to drop the dignities of royalty. So why should not my lady of fashion nowadays, when she flies to the country for a relaxation of social duties, furnish at least one bedroom in the picturesque manner of the French or Flemish, Dutch or Italian peasant?

And as for the rest of us, who can neither afford to pay for the finest of quality and workmanship plus the smartest of smart ideas in painted summer furnishings nor yet to invest our money in cheap furniture that is cheaply built in imitation of the better thing, what shall we do about it? Why, do for ourselves and by ourselves if needs be and as best we can what a group of decorators are doing for a steadily growing clientele, who bring to them all sorts and conditions of old and ugly pieces of furniture to be given a new lease of life with the aid of a few carpenter's tools and a paint box.

In one of these remodeling shops was recently seen a charming bedroom set in a dark yet rather brilliant French blue, touched up here and there with a bit of old gold, and still further enriched with an oval of lighter ground on which was painted a basket of old fashioned flowers, inset on the front of the bureau, the foot and head boards of the bed, the chair backs and the center top of the table. The general style of the pieces was colonial. The charm of them was not alone the charm of ravishing color, but their simplicity.

A photograph showed the transformation of this set. Every piece had been of a different kind or color of wood and every one had belonged to that age of horrors which we speak of as the Victorian. With scraping and grinding and trimming until they were all reduced to unfinished wood and shorn of their gilded ornaments and then with coat after coat of paint the miracle had been worked.

It is not to be thought for a moment that any woman can from her attic bring discarded beds and chairs and things and then with paint and patience perform like miracles at home or transform hideous pieces of yellow oak and dismal black walnut furniture into pieces as beautiful as those just described, for that takes perfected art and experience. But any woman can who will scrape and sandpaper the old finish off of any piece of furniture whose possibilities she sees, have a local carpenter bereave it of absurd ornaments, if she cannot also attend to this part of the work herself, and turn out from an improvised workshop in basement or attic really wonderful transformations by the aid of paint and good taste.

Spruce Beer.

Allow an ounce of hops and a tablespoonful of ginger to a gallon of water. When well boiled strain it and put in a pint of molasses or a pound of brown sugar and one-half ounce or less of the essence of spruce. When cool add a teaspoonful of yeast and put into a clean, tight cask and let it ferment for a day or two; then bottle it for use. You can boil the sprigs of spruce in place of the essence.

Lemonade Spoons.

Long handled spoons for stirring lemonade are made with spiral stems, topped with a fruit in enamel—cherries, lemons, grapes, oranges and some of the other fruits that go into the making of tempting beverages. These spoons cost $1.50 each.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

An absorbing occupation for the children when a day indoors is in order is the making of a shadow box. The inner sides of a cardboard box are lined with black paper. Then the back of the box is made of paste to the inside bottom of the box. A colored postcard affords a good background for most scenes. Scenery, such as trees, flowers, houses and the like, can be cut from other postcards and pasted on the sides of the box. The cover of the box is then replaced by a sheet of glass the size of the box. The glass is fastened to the box by a strip of tape glued across the joint of box and glass. Small figures cut from cards and pasted in the foreground on bits of paper turned under and pasted down afford endless opportunities for composition and action. A Japanese card for background and side wings, with the tiny trees, shrubs and Japanese figures, which may be purchased so reasonably, gives a charming little scene.

Listening to Electric Current.

An interesting electrical experiment, illustrating the fact that sound accompanies the passage of electricity through the body, can be shown in the following manner: Let two persons each hold an electrode from a small magneto or shocking coil. Let one person, with his free hand, touch the other person behind and just below the ear. A buzzing sound, otherwise inaudible, can be heard. The tone of the sound depends upon the number of interruptions of the current.—Popular Science Monthly.

THE WEEK OF THE WAR.

On the Western front the English French drive has taken the first system of defense along on eight mile front and has held these positions in the face of violent counters. The number of prisoners taken exceeds 7,500. The British have finally captured the fiercely contested town of Contalmaison after desperate day and night fighting and now are holding the town against all the German counter attacks. The importance the Germans have attached to this position may be measured by the fact that they threw the Prussian Guards into the fighting at this point. The British are also in possession of the greater part of Mametz wood and have recaptured nearly the whole of Trones wood.

More than 271,000 prisoners have been taken during Gen. Brussloff's drive on the Eastern front, according to an official report. The Russians now are within twenty miles of Kovel.

TEACHERS INSTITUTE.

The Garrard County Teachers' Institute will be held here the week beginning July 31st, with Dr. E. C. McDougall as Instructor.

All teachers who expect to teach in this county this year, and all who hold Garrard county certificates who are not expecting to teach, are required to attend the full session of this Institute or forfeit their certificate.

All rural schools must begin before the 31st of July if they desire to count this Institute week as no school will be permitted to count this week unless already in session before this date of July 31st.

AMATEUR WIRELESS MEN
READY TO SERVE COUNTRY

Expert Declares Large Number of Operators Are Prepared.

Virtually every amateur wireless operator in the United States stands ready at a moment's notice to enter the army's radio service in Mexico.

E. B. Chambers of 2040 Arch street, Philadelphia, an expert on the subject of wireless telegraphy and a director of the Wireless Association of Pennsylvania, made this statement. Mr. Chambers has a radio station at his home.

"Secretary of War Baker recently sent us a circular letter asking us if we would, if the occasion demanded it, serve in the radio corps," Mr. Chambers said. "As you know, when we receive our licenses we virtually specify that in the event of a foreign invasion or at such time the government desires our services, we shall stand ready to assist."

Mr. Chambers said that the more expert of the wireless operators will have charge of a corps of operators. There will be many hundreds of amateur operators, he said, who are eligible to these posts.

"Amateurs do not necessarily mean inexperienced operators," Mr. Chambers continued. "As applied to wireless an amateur is a person who is in the work for the love of it—one who does not accept money for his services."

Sir Hiram Maxima, Mr. Chambers said, had done a great deal to give the amateur radio operators a chance. It was at his suggestion that the speed test held last Washington's birthday was made. In this test the entire country was covered by amateurs in something less than an hour and a half.

"In the event of a foreign invasion," Mr. Chambers said, "the whole country could be informed of the actions of hostile armies in an incredibly short space of time. The amateur wireless operators will be of invaluable service in the future."

Regarding Mexico, Mr. Chambers said that it was strange that General Funston cannot keep in closer touch with the movements of the punitive expedition. Either the ground is sandy or the field radio machines are inadequate. If the amateurs were called to the service, he said, there would be such an army of them that the messages would not fail to reach their destination.

PAY UP; THIRST DOWN.
More You Earn Less You Drink, Health Folk Say.

Take it right from the unimpeachable authority of the New York health department's monthly bulletin, a sure way to vanquish the demon rum is to get the boss to raise your pay and cut off a few hours of work. This may sound paradoxical, but so many some of the other fifty points emphasized by the bulletin's dissertation on the subject, as, for instance, the following:

"The expenditure for beer shows a steady decline as wages increase."

"It has also been discovered that the man who works the longest hours per day spends the most time in the saloon."

"There is no doubt that the moving picture show is up to the present date the most successful rival of the saloon."

"Married men spend more time in the saloon than do single men. Twice as many married men go to the saloon as do single men."

SHE SET A TRAP FOR HUBBY.
Suspicious Wife Cures Him of the Traditional Failing.

The wife of a Dorchester (Mass.) man who had the traditional failing—he forgot to mail letters—has cured him. The mail is delivered at their home before the breakfast hour, which is comparatively late. One morning she said to her husband:

"Did you have any mail this morning, dear?"

"Only a circular," he answered as he bit into a fine brown slice of toast.

"H'm," said wife. "By the way, did you mail the letters I gave you yesterday?"

"Sure I did," was the righteously indignant reply.

"Well," answered wife, with an eloquent smile. "It's funny, then, you had no letters this morning, because one of those I gave you to mail was addressed to you—just as a sort of key."

Among the out of town guests were:

Miss Ruth Waller, Louisville, Miss Sue Garrett, Middleboro, Misses May McMan and Mary Prewitt, Williamsburg, Miss Ruth Ray, Master Earl Ray, Mrs. Rozella Dunn, Mrs. C. Davidson, Miss Minnie Gully, Minerva Cox, Mrs. J. W. Brown, Mrs. Geo Ray and children, Mrs. Nora Teater, Misses Flossie Sutton, Sallie Teater and Ethel Ray, Mr. J. E. Dickerson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Soper of Lancaster.—Richmond Climax

Three Million Auto Tires made— —by GOODRICH, in year 1915

STUDY the Price-List publicly printed below. Compare with the List-Prices of other Tires made in LESSER Volume. Observe that competing Prices are higher in almost the exact proportion that VOLUME of production is smaller. This, when Quality approaches the Goodrich Standard. Cut our 1915 Tire Output (of 3,000,000 Auto and Truck Tires) to One-third, and it would still far exceed the Average of all Competing Makes or Brands. But, that huge reduction in Volume MIGHT result in every Tire we made costing you One-third MORE than present prices. They would not, and could not, be BETTER Tires, at this necessarily higher-cost to us, and higher-price to you. Because, Goodrich Tires are not made "up to a price,"—nor "down to a price."

WE, first of all, make the BEST Fabric Tires that our 47-year Experience in Rubber-Working,—our huge Purchasing-Power, and the most Advanced Equipment, renders possible. Then we let Cost fall where it will. To that Cost we add a moderate, and fair, Profit for Ourselves and for our Dealers. Then we let VOLUME rise,—as it will. The more Tires we Make, the LESS each Tire COSTS us to produce,—and the less it costs YOU to buy them. The more Tires we Sell, the less profit, per Tire, WE NEED, for dividends. The more Tires we make, the better we KNOW HOW to make them,—the more we have at Stake on Quality,—and Satisfaction to Consumers. And,—because of all this,—The BEST Fabric Tires that Skill,—Experience,—Good-Faith, and Maximum Volume, can build,—are now available to YOU at the VERY MODERATE Fair-List Prices here quoted. Why pay more for ANY Fabric Tire?

THE B. F. GOODRICH CO., Akron, O.

Goodrich "Fair-List" Prices

NOTICE.—These Tires are as perfect as Fabric Tires can be made. But, should any dissatisfaction whatever arise, with any Goodrich Tire, its Owner is invited, and REQUESTED, to take the matter up promptly with us,—the Makers. He will find that Fair, Square, and LIBERAL treatment will always be extended, on all proper adjustments.

HOW OUR BOYS PASS THEIR TIME AWAY ON HOT PLAINS OF MEXICAN BORDER

Little Stories From the Front That Give Keen Insight Into Daily Lives of National Guardsmen.

How One Married Man, Who Insisted on Teaching Son to Fight, Drooped Dead
En Route to Texas.

OUR boys are at the front, and everybody is proud of them. Everybody likes to know what they are doing, how they are faring in Texas, and the little things that arise in their daily life always prove interesting. So these little stories have been selected from the great amount of news that is sent from the border:

Returns With Father's Body.

The body of Color Sergeant Samuel Garrett of the Fourteenth Infantry, N. Y. N. O., who went from Brooklyn to face the perils of war, but found death waiting for him this side of the Rio Grande, has been returned. He dropped dead the other evening.
The lone escort of the body is George Garrett, bugler of Company C and a son of the dead man. The father went with the colors for the expressed purpose of "teaching that kid how to get along straight in the army."

When the president called for the national guard Colonel Foote, command-

Captain Boyd for who's buff fighting men."

Colonel Fisk had an extra ticket, and Private Cox traveled as his guest on D company's car.

Want Everlasting Ice.

General Parker, at Brownsville, has received information that a wealthy resident of New York wants to present each soldier in the New York division with something that will be of use to him in the field. The general has been asked to designate what the boys ought to have, and he is stumped.
The government furnishes its soldiers with every necessity and all that a soldier can carry of same. The most acceptable present from the philanthropic New Yorker would be an individual cake of everlasting ice, which could be carried in a soldier's trousers pocket or hat.

Must Wear Hats.

Brigadier General Dyer, who was at one time colonel of the Twelfth New York, has found it necessary to issue a peremptory order that the soldiers must wear their hats in the sun. The Texas sunshine is strong enough to scramble the brains of one not in the habit of exposing his dome to the blue of heaven. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon General Dyer issued orders that all the men of the Twelfth not engaged in necessary work should crawl into the shelter of their tents. At that hour the heat was blistering, and the hospital corps was getting a lot of practical field duty.

Mixup With a Mule.

The well known but inexplicable disposition of the army mule was responsible for an amusing episode at the time of the Seventh, Seventy-first and the Twelfth of New York. Especially recalcitrant are the mules of the Seventh. By orders of Colonel Fisk a corral was being erected around the faithful, noisy but essential aids to the soldier when the preliminary dust storm that heralds a rain in that part of Texas came blustering out of the east. The mules decided the corral was no place for them, and several jumped the barrier and went in the general direction of Mexico.

It was time for quick action. One of the first men to grab a mule and attempt to subdue it was Private Thornton Brown of Company K, a cousin of J. Pierpont Morgan. A moving picture concern would have given a million dollars for a film of the wrestling match between Private Brown and the mule.

The mule won, but Private Brown came out of the encounter with glory and mud and also equipped with much knowledge of mule strategy.

War Camp Lingo.

Here's the way the soldiers say it:
Mule skinner—a teamster.
Sinkers—dumplings.
Bean shooter—a commissary officer.
Black strap—black coffee.
Bowless—a cavalryman.
Butcher—the military barber.
Cit—a citizen.
Cit-civilian clothes.
Dough puncher—a baker.
Punk—army bread.
Salt horse—pickled pork.
Old skipper—company captain.
Grayback's retreat—the guardhouse.

With St. Louis Men.

During the journey of the St. Louis troops one day was through dry territory. "Nobody Knows How Dry I Am" was sung by the men. The officers had a different version. The chorus was as follows:

Oh, take me to that happy land
Where the river of beer is found,
And also gin Rickers fill the air,
And highballs roll on the ground.
What? Highballs roll on the ground?
Sure! Highballs roll on the ground.

Though nearly all the members of the column's staff are gifted with melodious voices, the staff quartet is the pride of the regiment. The members are Colonel Donnelly, Captain Nulsen, Major Gruner and Major Burgher.

Led by S. E. Guthrie, the hospital corps woke up some of the sleepy towns in Arkansas with this blood-thirsty yell:

Well man, sick man, dead man, stiff,
Cut 'em up, slice 'em up, what's the dirt.
Humorous, humorous, blood and gore;
First Missouri Infantry Hospital corps.

First Snake Bite.

Venomous fauna of the tropics nipped their first victim. Lieutenant Charles T. Keating of an Illinois regiment was getting ready for retreat. He picked up his coat from his tent cot and thrust his arm into the sleeve. A scorpion exerted the claims of priority. Lieutenant Keating dropped the coat and tumbled the poisonous insect to the tent floor. In attempting to trample it he narrowly escaped a second bite, as it made a fastening on his sock. A side kick killed it.

Lieutenant Keating reported at once to Major George C. Amerson, chief of the regimental medical corps, and was treated and sent to the hospital.

"There is no danger," said Major Amerson. "The poison was taken in time and an antidote administered before it had a chance to work."

Major Amerson issued a warning to all of the men to take care in putting on their garments to make sure no poisonous insects were in possession.

With Massachusetts Men.

Over on Folk avenue in Morningside heights, northwest of Fort Bliss, the First Massachusetts ambulance corps have set up dinky little pup tents and occupy the entire field, with the exception of their fellow service men of the hospital corps and the field signal corps of the Massachusetts command. Little Red Cross flags flapped in the hot breeze, and the signal corps men lay under their tents all day, eating ice-cream cones and fanning themselves. While they slept and ate a gang of Mexican laborers in command of General Jose Du la Luz Joseph of the Light, Blanca, Madero's ranking general and associate of Villa in the Madero revolution, dug water main trenches, grubbed Spanish dagger plants from the rocky soil and cleared the ground of grease wood and sage. General Blanca has retired from the field and is now a waterworks foreman.

Jerseyites at Douglas.

A and B batteries of the New Jersey field artillery were sent to Douglas, Ariz., presumably to relieve regular cavalrymen. It is reported that the cavalry will be ordered to the San Bernardino valley, east of Douglas, to protect its large supply of cattle, horses and forage from possible bandit forays. A regiment of New Jersey Infantry, two troops of cavalry and a signal company also left westward for an unannounced point along the border.

General George Bell, Jr., announced that he had employed a corps of undertakers to go to Carrizal to bring here the bodies of the American soldiers killed in the engagement there. The undertakers will go into Mexico under personal guarantee of safety from General Alvaro Obregon, Mexican minister of war.

How Maloney Made Weight.

The happiest man in the Illinois section is Jimmie Maloney of Troop K. Jimmie, be it said, is a strategist. He is a light lad with a pleasant, likable face. Jimmie feared he wouldn't make the weight required by army rules—120 pounds. Jimmie did weigh more than this before he went to Springfield, but hard drill knocked off five pounds. The night before federal examination Jimmie weighed himself—118 pounds. A chill ran along his back. Jimmie sure was going to Mexico—but, an idea Jimmie went to the pump and drank long and deep. He did this many times. When he stood on the scales of fate the next day he was six pounds overweight, and when it was all over Jimmie's sober face relaxed and he chuckled.

Mexican Flag.

Lieutenant Renschlohn of St. Louis pronounced a puzzler. He inquired as to the colors and design of the Mexican flag. Colonel Donnelly grinned, but ventured not one word.

Captain Freen Nulsen said he didn't know what it looked like, but that he would get one for the staff correspondent soon after arriving at the border.

Major Gruner said the question was idle, as the residents of that troubled land awoke each morning under a different flag. This closed the argument.

Heat In Laredo.

The townspeople of Laredo hall the advent of the troops with delight. They do not fear the Mexicans—indeed, it is the other way around—but soldiers spend money, and Laredo is getting ready for a boom.

Concerning the intense heat here, the inhabitants like to repeat the story told of Laredo "bad men" in border days of the past. When they died and passed away to a merited berth in the lower regions—here the teller of the tale always chuckles—they took their blankets with them.

Producing Colored Silks.

It has been found that by feeding silkworms partly on mulberry leaves and partly on osage leaves, being extremely careful with the allowances of the two foods, they can be made to produce red and blue silk. Colored thread has been obtained by feeding the worms on dyed leaves, but this method is not practical on a commercial scale. The natural color of raw silk is yellow or white.

The Bethlehem Steel Company's Offer to Serve the United States

At a time when the expenses of the Government are so enormous—

Isn't it worth while finding out the actual facts before plunging ahead into an expenditure of $11,000,000 of the people's money for a Government armor plant?

To clear up the whole situation, and to put it on a basis as fair and business-like as we know how to express it, we now make this offer to the Government:

The Bethlehem Steel Company will manufacture armor plate for the Government of the United States at actual cost of operation plus such charges for overhead expenses, interest and depreciation as the Federal Trade Commission may fix. We will agree to this for such period as the Government may designate.

The House of Representatives voted down a proposal to empower the Federal Trade Commission to determine a fair price for armor, and allow private manufacturers opportunity to meet that price before the Government built its plant.

Isn't our proposition fair and ought it not to be accepted?

The measure is now before the United States Senate.

ADAIR FOUGHT TO BITTER END

Mexican Describes How Dead Lieutenant Used Pistols.

GALLANT AGAINST ALL ODDS

After Emptying Pistol He Threw It at Mexicans and Obtained Another From Dead Soldier at His Side—War Department Issued Orders For Discharge of Men With Dependents.

O. J. Wilson, an undertaker who helped to exhume the bodies of the American troops killed at Carrizal and who arrived with them at El Paso quoted a Carranza soldier as follows: "You should have seen the white tented Lieutenant Henry Adair fight. He was just a boy, slim and weak looking, but he fought us like a madman. He operated his automatic pistol until it seemed like a machine gun, and when his work was finished he threw it at us and seized another from a dead trooper and fought us harder than ever. He was wounded, but still his bullets rained among us until one of our shots tore into his chest and he dropped dead."

"The Mexican," continued Wilson, "pointed out the spot where Lieutenant Adair fell. Before it were strewn thickly the carcasses of Mexican horses, whose riders had been shot down by the officer. The soldier said Lieutenant Adair thus, single handed, moved down a cavalry charge of the Mexicans, fanning his automatic from side to side.

"Shells were strewn everywhere about the place where Adair died. His fight must have been one of the most gallant ever made by an American officer against hopeless odds."

Without knowing his son had met death, Samuel Adair, father of Lieutenant Adair, died at Portland, Ore., after a lingering illness. His last words were: "Henry is now a captain. He has received his promotion." Lieutenant Adair was to have been made a captain on July 1. Father and son probably will be buried at the same time.

How Discharge May Be Obtained.
Enlisted men of the national guard in federal service who have one or more relatives dependent on them for support may obtain their discharge upon application to their department commander.

Secretary of War Baker put this rule into effect as the result of letters to the war department pleading for the release of militiamen whose wives, or other relatives were left in straitened circumstances.

The rule applies primarily to married men, but is so framed as to include unmarried men with aged parents, children or other relatives dependent on them. The number of men in the enlisted militia who can avail themselves of the order is estimated by the war department at less than 2,000.

Secretary Baker notified General Wood at Governors Island and the other department commanders that the soldier must file a petition to be discharged and must furnish proof of the dependency.

But if department commanders learn of soldiers who ought to apply for the discharge they must inform the soldiers of the right to apply for it, the order reads.

LLOYD-GEORGE'S CAREER.

Has Been Efficient Member of British Cabinets For Eleven Years.

Lloyd-George, who was recently appointed secretary of state for war, has been a member of British cabinets for nearly eleven years and has been singularly efficient in various positions of the highest importance. When the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman organized a Liberal government Dec. 19, 1905, he appointed Lloyd-George president of the board of trade, which position the latter filled until Mr. Asquith, who succeeded to the premiership April 8, 1908, made Lloyd-George chancellor of the exchequer. When the coalition government was formed May 25, 1915, Lloyd-George was chosen minister of munitions, a post he has held with marked success until he has now been made minister of war to succeed the late Lord Kitchener.

BATHERS KILLED BY SHARKS.

Two Tragedies Within One Week Along New Jersey Coast.

While hundreds of summer visitors looked on helplessly, Charles Bruder, a boy in a beach hotel at Spring Lake, N. J., was attacked by a shark and lost both his legs. He died ten minutes after being brought to shore.

This was the second case of the kind on the New Jersey coast within a week. A young man lost his leg and died at Beach Haven.

The witnesses of the Beach Haven tragedy had a plain view of the shark. Its fins projected at moments above the surface of the water. But in Bruder's case there was no sight of the shark.

Bruder was just able to gasp "A shark bit me," and then he fainted. In a few minutes he died from loss of blood.

KEEP THEM CLEAN TO SAVE CHILDREN

Epidemic of Infantile Paralysis Puzzles New York Doctors.

MOVIES CLOSED TO YOUNG.

No One Under Sixteen Will Be Admitted—Sunday Schools Discontinued—Symptoms Confusing, and Scientists Have Been Unable to Isolate the Germ or Find Cure.

Anterior Poliomyelitis.—An infective contagious disease, probably of microbic origin, in which the anterior horns of gray matter of the spinal cord are attacked, producing destruction of their cells and causing motor paralysis; more common in children and hence often called infantile paralysis.—Webster's Dictionary.

This definition of infantile paralysis, written several years ago for laymen, is practically all that the medical world knows today regarding the dread disease now epidemic in New York. In 1907 an epidemic of infantile paralysis swept through the city, causing thousands of deaths.

With the epidemic growing daily, $41,000 has been set aside by the city for immediate expenditure in coping with the disease, and arrangements have been made that $30,000 more will be available if needed.

"Great and imminent peril to the public health exists," asserts the board of health. The money will be spent to employ fifty additional hospital doctors, fifteen additional field doctors and at least 120 additional nurses.

Three thousand theaters and moving picture houses are now closed to children under sixteen years of age; summer schools are being called off; military camps for boys in the vicinity of the Greater City are being placed under the strictest regulations; Sunday school picnics and excursions are being abandoned. Sunday schools discontinued for the summer in many parishes, and the heeds of children from the city progressed appreciably.

Every effort has been put forward to trace the germ that causes the ailment and thus find a cure, such as was accomplished in typhoid and diphtheria. During the 1907 epidemic a committee composed of the most eminent medical men in the United States made a systematic study of infantile paralysis with the purpose of accurately cataloging the symptoms of the disease and of identifying the germ that caused it. With the germ properly identified the task of finding a serum to kill it and thus produce a cure for infantile paralysis would not be a difficult one.

Find Symptoms Confusing.

But the eminent medical men found themselves against a stone wall. The report which they had prepared on the 1907 epidemic shows that in some cases the symptoms were fever and chills; in others they were not; in some cases that the juvenile sufferer vomited and was delirious; in others that the sufferers showed entirely different symptoms. The bacteriologists had no better success. Headed by Dr. Simon Flexner of the Rockefeller Institute, they segregated the poliomyelitis germ, but were unable to identify it further than to find that it showed a similarity to the virus of human rabies. They injected germs of infantile paralysis into animals, and of those experimented upon monkeys were the only ones that contracted the disease. This was interesting, but not vitally instructive in so far as finding a cure for infantile paralysis was concerned.

The 1907 epidemic passed, the medical men drew up a long report, and infantile paralysis was practically forgotten until the present scourge began sweeping over New York. With the coming of the 1916 epidemic the medical profession found itself just where it was in 1907. It knew that a germ caused infantile paralysis, but it did not know how to deal with the germ except to eradicate it by the one method used in dealing with all deadly germs—absolute cleanliness.

Therefore cleanliness has been the slogan of the health department in the present epidemic. Dr. Charles F. Brundage, head of the bureau of public health education of the health department, told how the fight against infantile paralysis is being waged.

"We have physicians, nurses and inspectors out seeking cases of the disease day and night," he said. "We also are conducting a campaign of publicity so that parents may know how to keep their children clean and healthy. The department of health has prepared a map on which a daily record of the disease is kept."

"Parents must not give way to fright or hysteria. If a child becomes sick a competent physician should be summoned at once. If a child is given plenty of fresh air and sunshine and kept amid clean surroundings there is no great danger of its contracting the disease."

Lynchings Show Decrease.

Records kept at the Tuskegee institute show that there were twenty-five lynchings in the United States during the first six months of this year compared with thirty-four for the same period a year ago. Two whites and twenty-three negroes were mob victims, and eight of them were killed in Georgia. Five were charged with attacks upon women.

New Stained-Glass Process.

A process has been perfected in France for applying colors to glass by heat, so that stained glass windows can be made without fastening many pieces of glass of different hues together.

HUNTERS TAKE NOTICE.

This Agreement Witnesseth: That in order to protect the game on our lands for a period of three years we bind ourselves not to hunt thereon, nor permit anybody else to do so, and we further agree to prosecute with diligence all persons who violate the game laws of Kentucky or trespass upon our lands for the purpose of hunting. And we further agree to act as Deputy Game Wardens for the purpose of carrying out this agreement. Except each of us have the right to kill rabbits on our arms or permit it to be done by another under our supervision, or the supervision of some responsible and reliable person selected by us.
